Informations

Austis is an ancient land. Already inhabited in pre-Nuragic times, it saw its heyday in Roman times, becoming a military station under Emperor Augustus.

In the Middle Ages it became a department of the Giudicato d'Arborea and underwent various dominations until today when Austis is part of the Comunità Montana of Gennargentu-Mandrolisai and is considered an integral part of the Barbagia di Ollolai.

Austis is the perfect place for those who love holidays immersed in nature thanks to its territory, which is among the most varied in the whole of Sardinia.

Woods rich in chestnut trees, holm oaks and centuries-old oaks alternate with stretches of cork oaks, unique rock formations such as Sa Crabaris-sa and Su Nou Orruendechè and dense Mediterranean scrub. Downstream is Lake Benzene, an artificial lake used for Austis is the custodian of archaic legends and popular traditions that are still alive today in the typical costumes and masks of the Carnival, Sos Colonganos, which refer to very ancient pagan rites.

The cuisine, simple and genuine, is characterised by excellent quality products and popular recipes handed down from generation to generation.
